NEVADA'S DEVELOPMENT.

The Board of Trade Calls Upon the Men Who Have Made Fortunes in Nevada to Assist in Building up the State.

The following is a copy of a letter addressed by the Board of Trade to some of the men who have made fortunes in Nevada and left the State to enjoy the luxuries of other climes. It is a plea to them to contribute something to the working fund of the Board of Trade, who are trying to stimulate a more healthy order of things and bring the State out of the dumps and put it on the high road to prosperity:

NEVADA STATE BOARD OF TRADE
RENO, Nev., Aug. 18, 1890

DEAR SIR: The sentiment is largely held that Nevada is not a desirable place for the pursuit of agriculture and horticulture, but the fact is the reverse. There is hardly an acre of watered land in the State, which with sufficient labor properly bestowed, will not produce ten times as valuable crops as it does at present. The whole difficulty lies in the scarcity of labor, consequent upon a disposition on the part of immigrants and laborers to risk their future in any other state in preference to this.

If our resources in climate, soil and mineral wealth could be properly placed before the toiling masses of Europe and the Eastern States, this sentiment would change instantly and the land in Nevada now devoted exclusively to raising food for cattle would be put to higher uses. The great stretches of fine land on the Humboldt, Walker, Truckee, Carson and other streams now producing hay and grass, would be at least partially broken up and utilized for mixed agriculture and horticulture, making food for man and women as well as stock, and by that means gradually changing the practice of importing everything we eat, wear and handle at the highest prices. All the objections urged against the settlement of Nevada will disappear if frugal and industrious people can be induced to come here and work as men work to raise crops in other countries.

If it is said that freight rates are too high to export crops, the answer is that before exporting we must supply our own needs, and instead of bringing in ham, bacon, butter, eggs, fruit and vegetables, we must produce them at home. It can be said, too, that the men who come here can afford to live off their farms without exporting anything and still be far ahead of their condition in their old homes. It can also be said that no railroad ever refused, or ever will refuse, profitable business, and when there is a surplus, provision can be made to market it.

Before any of these desirable results can be accomplished, however, a sentiment must be created in favor of Nevada as a home for a small portion, at least, of the large classes that are looking for new fields of labor. This can only be done by persistent and systematic efforts in placing facts and figures in the hands of the individuals themselves, and in order to do that, funds beyond those now at the command of the Board of Trade are absolutely necessary.

We appeal to you in the matter in the hope that your long connection with the State and your well-known liberality in matters of general importance will induce you to aid in the work. We can assure you that the funds of the Board will be put to the best possible use for the State as a whole, and will be glad to explain the plans pursued and get the benefit of your advice if your time will permit. Accompanying this we send pamphlets showing the objects to be attained and the line of policy adopted.

It is unnecessary to say to you that every material interest will be enhanced by the growth of a State like ours. Civilization everywhere is advanced by development in any part of the earth. The country as a whole will feel the good effects of an increase in wealth and population in the weakest member in the Union. But only upon the State itself will the full benefit fall. It is at the bottom today, but the trembling of a hand will start it on its upward course, and the results of one united and determined effort at this time on the part of all of its friends will be felt for ages to come. This appeal is made to those who, like yourself, have had large interests in Nevada, and have prospered by reason of them. May we not count upon your sympathy and aid in such a work now?

We would like to hear from you on the subject, and request that any communication be addressed to the State Board of Trade, Reno, Nev., and any check or draft be made payable to the order of Charles T. Bender, Treasurer. Very respectfully,

M. D. FOLEY,
D. A. BENDER,
W. E. SHARON,

"Better take him back to some Reno hotel" said Roberts, as they cracked some Roderer.
